

William V. Dwyer Pictured WITNESS DECLARES HE LIVED LIFE OF "RILEY" As Monarch of Bootleggers

New York, July 13.—The life of a run runner was the life of Riley, it developed at the trial of William V. Dwyer Tuesday.

Just what luxurious existence this otherwise anonymous Mr. Riley led has never been clearly defined, but his name has become a by-word for good living, and Charles A. Smith, government witness in the biggest liquor trial ever staged here, certainly lived well, according to his own testimony.

Smith, who once served as a sailor in the Russian navy, got his experience running blockades on a munitions ship during the world war. On the stand in federal court Tuesday, he continued his testimony concerning the operations of the run ring controlled by the quiet, spectacled man whom the government accuses of being a veritable monarch among bootleggers, and the head of a $10,000,000 smuggling concern.

The witness, first and only ex-convict to testify against Dwyer thus far, held jury and spectators spell-bound with interest as, under cross-examination, he gave details of 250 expeditions to run row and back, at $200 a trip.

What seemed to interest lawyers, judge and jury most was Smith's explanation of the "sampling" of cargoes permitted by the bootleggers' code.

"The super-cargo usually furnished a case of liquor to the crew of the boat that was running the stuff," he volunteered.

The witness said he drank whiskey, cigars, cordials and fine wines during the way in from row and after landing.

"What I didn't care for, I dumped overboard and tried something else," he explained.

"What was your favorite drink?" demanded Benjamin F. Spellman, chief counsel for Dwyer, who was arrested in the greatest prohibition round-up in New York's history last winter and indicted by a grand jury on counts ranging from violation of the revenue laws to murder. The government claims some of Dwyer's employees were sent to sea in rotten vessels and drowned.

Smith didn't need to hesitate over this question.

"Cherry brandy," he replied.

"When did you last have a drink?" he was asked.

"On Independence day," Smith replied.

"What was it?" Spellman inquired.

"I don't know," the witness answered candidly, and even Judge Julian Mack joined in the laugh.

"But I think it was hooch," he added.

When the run-running was good, however, nothing short of champagne or the finest liquors were good enough for Smith, who is an uncouth, weather-beaten, wiry man of 39, admitted.

"My wife didn't like to have me drink," he volunteered. This led to a discussion of Smith's married life.

"Where did you meet your wife?" the defense attorney asked.

"My chauffeur introduced us," Smith answered.

At this, the courtroom was swept by a gale of laughter. The idea of this rough, out-spoken sailor person having a chauffeur seemed ludicrous.

"Certainly," added the witness, indignantly at the laughter. "I had a chauffeur and a Packard car. We all did. We made good money, working for Dwyer."

The defendant, a reserved, almost shy family man with a country home on Long Island, looking rather like a banker than a bootlegger, smiled slightly and whispered to his counsel.

The bribing of police, the use of the Bellevue hospital dock in the

President Coolidge Adds Bass to String

Paul Smith's N. Y., July 13.—(AP)—President Coolidge today added a small mouth bass weighing 11.2 pounds to his piscatorial trophies of this summer.

His decision to go a-fishin' apparently was a sudden one, the start being made just before darkness fell over the surrounding Adirondacks.

ANDREWS SEEKING HELP OF BRITAIN

London, July 12.—(AP)—Armed with full documentary exhibits regarding run running activities, British Gen. Sir John B. Andrews, chief of the prohibition enforcement service of the United States, arrived in London today.

He hopes to place before the British government sufficient data to bring about an agreement between John B. and Uncle Sam, and thus deliver a serious blow against trans-Atlantic bootleggers and make liquor smuggling from this side a difficult task.

London papers refer to the general as "America's prohibition czar," but he has not given them much information since he reached here from Southampton, where he landed from the Aquitania this morning. He explained it was a bit early to talk much with reference to the outcome on his mind and the task which brought him here as chief of the mission that includes oil, treasure, officials, as well as representatives of the state department and the department of justice.

Among the documents General Andrews will place on the table for the consideration of the British at inter-departmental conferences will be a mass of statistics from the Bahamas. These will be explained by Harry J. Anselmer, the American consul there. America's chief prohibition officer also carries with him certain evidence so valuable in the eyes of the British as to prohibition that these particular papers were never out of sight for a moment of the general or his aides during a recent trip to London.

The general said this "sort of getting acquainted" trip, and he confidently expects to bring about an understanding with the British authorities concerning the illicit transportation of liquor across the Atlantic.

FRANCO-BRITISH TERMS REVEALED

London, July 13.—(AP)—Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, revealed to an attentive house of commons today the details of the debt settlement with France, and later the official text was given out.

Briefly, the settlement provides that France shall pay £4,000,000, $5,000,000, $5,000,000 and £10,000,000 the first four years, and thereafter £12,500,000 annually until 1957, when the amount becomes £14,000,000 annually for the final 31 years.

There are also provisions for possible delays in the payments and for pari passu payments proportionate to the payments to the United States, and for certain revision in the event of Great Britain's receiving more from reparations than she is paying the United States, while by an exchange of letters between Mr. Churchill and M. Caillaux in the event that France is disappointed in payments from Germany under the Dawes plan, the question of French payments to Great Britain shall come up for reconsideration. This concession, however, carefully is guarded in Mr. Churchill's letter.

Interest in Comparison.

The chief interest for the British people was in what was announced compared with the Franco-American settlement and to what extent France would be granted a part moratorium in the first few years. Earlier successful settlements in such inter-allied debts have brought in the British press fresh vexed reference to what many people considered Premier Baldwin's needless generosity in the original British settlement with the United States, and similar lamentations are not wanting on this occasion.

Satisfaction, however, is drawn from the fact that France, the same as Italy, will pay to Great Britain in the first decade more than the United States will get in the same period, and this fact Mr. Churchill and the taxpayers consider of greater essential importance than any sums that may be forthcoming in the more distant future.

The British settlement also renounces anything in the shape of negotiable bonds from France. Mr. Churchill, alluding to this subject in his speech, said: "The United States in all its agreements has taken the power to obtain such bonds, but market operations in such obligations would not in any case be easy, and as we never contemplated them I saw no reason to press for a power that we did not intend to use."

Repaid at Low Rate.

The chancellor further explained that the sums deducted from the earlier years payments would be repaid at a low rate of interest in later years, and that the sum of £2,000,000 in French money already in London would be virtually added to the first annual payment, making it equivalent to £6,000,000.

In regard to the question of reconsideration if France claimed relief on the ground of insufficiency of the German Dawes payments, Mr. Churchill said it would be open to both sides to argue the case on its merits.

In conclusion, the chancellor asserted that the settlement did not require ratification by parliament, but that if the house desired to discuss the subject it would be given the opportunity. In the event that the agreement was not ratified in France, the British government would be absolutely free.

San Francisco Opera company contemplated a suit for $100,000 against her for breach of contract. The company claims she is under contract to sing. "I am perfectly willing for them to go ahead and sue," the singer said. "I have never signed a contract with the San Francisco Opera company and I know they have no chance of obtaining a judgment. The only contract I had made in California was with the Los Angeles Opera company."

Slemp Suggests 5 Possibilities For Presidency

Cincinnati, July 13.—(AP)—C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge, today suggested five possibilities for the presidency.

Longworth, Cincinnati, speaker of the house of representatives, has a place in the picture of the next presidential campaign.

"It is, of course, well known that there will be a demand that President Coolidge accept another term, and only if the president declines to respond to this demand will the field be open to others," said Slemp. "I should say that these others, besides Speaker Longworth, are Lowden, Dawes, Hoover and Watson. Mr. Longworth is in good position from many points of view, as an experienced speaker, his many years of efficient service in congress, his geographical position, are all points in his favor."

Democrats Plan Attack on G.O.P. Economy Claims

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.
Washington, July 13.—The Coolidge economy program, which has been one of the chief assets of the administration, is likely to be subjected to considerable scrutiny in this year's campaign.

Appropriations for this year went up more than a quarter of a billion dollars. Even so, congress held them down nearly $7,000,000 below the amount asked for by President Coolidge.

Democrats are scoffing at the economy claims of the administration. Republican leaders in the house and senate are making explanations to counteract the political attacks now developing.

Figures Confusing.

Government fiscal tables are so confusing that even a clumsy juggler can make any claim seem convincing. But some significant figures are contained in the tables prepared by the chairman of the house and senate appropriations committee.

These show that congress pared the budget estimate of the white house by $6,802,000—cutting $2,091,938 from the department of agriculture, $1,304,955 from the navy, $2,887,148 from the deficiency bills, and making other reductions and some increases including $4,115,586 for the army, making the net reduction of nearly $7,000,000. Congress makes claim to this extent of imposing compulsory economy on the executive branch.

Increases Reported.

Principal increases this year are found in a few items. Prohibition was given $13,980,810 more than last year bringing the total appropriations for this purpose to $41,715,810. For veteran relief were increased by $173,515,000 making a total appropriation this year of $379,215,000. Other activities which were given material increases include construction of public buildings, river and harbor improvement, pensions, tax refunds. The Philadelphia plan added slightly over $2,000,000 to this year's expense.

The democratic attitude is reflected by Representative Byrns, ranking minority member on the house appropriations committee.

"The corner stone of the Coolidge administration is the alleged economy thereof," he said in commenting on the figures. "Upon this corner stone has been built the widespread propaganda featuring the silent man of the white house as the economic savior of our country. The fact is this alleged economy which is the only outstanding accomplishment claimed for him even by his most partisan followers, is a complete fiction. The first fiscal year after the present chief executive assumed office expenditures have steadily increased each year. There has been no year since 1926, there were 488,057 government employees and that on December 31, 1925, there were 548,077."

NAPIER ELECTED HEAD OF ATTORNEYS GENERAL IN U.S.

Denver, Col., July 13.—(AP)—George M. Napier, of Atlanta, Ga., was elected president of the National Association of Attorneys General, meeting here today. William L. Boatright, of Colorado, was elected vice president; H. H. Appleton, of Little Rock, Ark., secretary-treasurer. The newly elected executive committee includes Harvey H. Cluff, of Salt Lake City; Charles E. Griffith, of Topeka, Kan., and J. R. Benton, of Boston.

ATTACK IS MADE ON $8,000,000 WILL OF FRANCIS JONES

Chicago, July 13.—(AP)—A petition to set aside the will of Francis W. Jones, former president of the Melba Manufacturing company, was filed today in the federal district court by attorneys for his son, Walter E. Jones, of Phoenix, Ariz. Charges that his brother, Albert G. Jones, with others, had the will fraudulently executed, while the father was not of sound mind, are made.

Kissimmee, Fla., July 13.—(AP)—No receiver will be appointed for the Bank of Osceola county, which closed its doors last Saturday morning, according to word received here today from Ernest Amos, state comptroller, at Tallahassee, by bank officials.

Accounts of the liquidation, officers said, show that the bank is solvent.

Pinchot Demands 'Clean Elections' In Pennsylvania

Harrisburg, Pa., July 13.—(AP)—Governor Pinchot tonight called upon the people of Pennsylvania through their legislature to take "fearless and effective" action to prevent a repetition of the election "debauchery" which he charged was practiced in the republican state primary last May "by two powerful combination machine politicians and their financial allies."

Using the disclosures before the United States senate committee which investigated expenditures in the Pennsylvania primary as a text, Mr. Pinchot wrote to the executive committee of a commission he formed to draft election reform measures.

He asked the committee to submit recommendations to his successor and the next legislature "to insure clean elections hereafter."

Admitting his own expenditures were "considerable," Governor Pinchot said that "in view of the enormous expenditures of my opponents, what was spent in my behalf represented the smallest sum on which a campaign could be made with even the least prospect of success."

He said he had instructed the attorney general to examine the testimony of the senate committee and institute prosecutions where the evidence warrants.

Kindred Declares 2.75PerCentBeer Not Intoxicating

(By Lensed Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Washington, July 13.—Representative John J. Kindred, democrat, of New York, a practicing physician for 37 years, undertakes to prove that 2.75 per cent beer is not intoxicating in an extension of remarks appearing in a supplemental edition of The Congressional Record issued today. Representative Kindred asserts that his statements are based on actual personal experiments upon himself and others. He backs up his own observations with quotations from other medical men.

Advocating a modification of the Volstead act, Dr. Kindred declares that the present law "has proven to be not only ineffective, costly and unenforceable, but it has also proven to be one of the greatest sources of national crime and the cause of the breakdown and lack of respect for all law and authority." He adds that prohibition also has been "the greatest factor in bringing about and continuing the greatest crime wave in the history of the United States, as well as the cause of a breakdown in the morale of even the schoolboys and boys throughout the country."

After defining what he describes as the first, second and third stages of intoxication, Representative Kindred asserts that it is absurd to claim that 2.75 per cent beer when taken to the full capacity of the human stomach could cause intoxication.

"I have made actual personal experiments upon myself and others which conclusively prove that beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content consumed by us to the full capacity of the stomach would not, and could not cause intoxication," says Dr. Kindred. "Two pints of beer, which is about the capacity of the stomach under its ordinary condition, meaning about six or eight modern beer glasses full of beer would contain not enough alcoholic content or anywhere near enough to cause intoxication."

"No more effects could be produced from that quantity of 2.75 per cent beer than are produced constantly by one or two cups of strong coffee or tea."

"Six or seven or eight modern beer glasses would contain, speaking more generally, about 32 fluid ounces, and 32 fluid ounces of beer with 2.75 per cent alcoholic strength would contain 7 small teaspoonsful of ethyl alcohol or grain alcohol which could not make any normal person drunk, especially in such diluted form as 2.75 per cent beer. This would not even have the intoxicating effects of that amount of alcohol taken in undiluted form."

PAROLE FOR COX Oil Promoter Will Leave Leavenworth.

Leavenworth, Kan., July 13.—(AP)—Seymour E. J. It was learned authoritatively here today that approval of department of justice officials for the parole has been obtained, it is understood.

Cox entered the penitentiary February 11, 1924, under two sentences, one of from one to five years and the other for eight years, running concurrently. He and E. G. Glenn had been convicted at Houston, Texas, on charges of using the mails to defraud, in connection with the Bluebird Oil company.

Friends of Coolidge Deny He Will Not Be Candidate, As Forecast by Cummins

Statement by Iowa Senator Is Seen as Reflecting Feeling of Farmers Toward Coolidge.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, July 13.—That President Coolidge fully intends to be a candidate for re-election in 1928 is the belief of members of his administration. In case he should decide not to run, as Senator Cummins, republican of Iowa, is quoted today as saying, the expectation is that he will announce the fact well before the coming of a few months before the republican nominating convention.

The Cummins statement, as viewed by republican administration leaders, reflects the present feeling of the middle western group, which sought the enactment of the corn belt surplus legislative program, but which failed to secure the support of Secretary of Agriculture Jardine.

Senator Cummins, although heretofore regarded as a regular and on most issues in accord with the president, was one of the most active supporters of the corn belt farm bill. His friends attributed his defeat for re-nomination by former Senator Brookhart to resentment against the attitude of the Coolidge administration with which Senator Cummins had been on most matters closely identified.

Other middle western republicans, like Senator Cummins, believe that the tide of sentiment against President Coolidge in the agricultural section of the country will continue to develop until it becomes evident that the president can be re-nominated and that he will either voluntarily or as a result of pressure from his advisers decide not to become a candidate. As against this view the eastern republican leaders think that if Coolidge were to be re-nominated, agricultural conditions in the middle west otherwise improve the present admitted hostility to the president.

Much will depend, it is conceded, upon the decision of the congressional elections this fall. Capture of either or both houses of congress by the democrats, it is admitted, would give strong impetus to the movement for the nomination of a middle western republican candidate who is in sympathy with the corn belt legislative program.

Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, or Vice President Dawes.

CUMMINS' STATEMENT COMES AS SURPRISE.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Paul Smith's N. Y., July 13.—Senator Cummins' statement that President Coolidge will not be a candidate in 1928 to succeed himself and that a republican party split menaces republican success in that year, came as a profound surprise to members of the president's party here. It met with only expressions of astonishment that the Iowa senator had been moved to couple an assertion of the president's intentions about which he could know nothing with a prediction that his party is doomed to the same fate that attended his own aspirations to succeed himself in the senate.

Those who are closest to the president ridiculed the Cummins statement, asserting that no one but the president knows whether he is to be a candidate in 1928 and that perhaps he himself does not know at this time. The prevailing opinion is that he will not make up his mind on this subject until along about January 1, 1928 and that he will be influenced by his decision by the state of the nation, the state of his party and other considerations.

Even if he does not intend to be a candidate in 1928, he would not admit it at this time or at a time up to the year in which the nominating convention will be held, in the opinion of the republican leaders. If he were to say now that he will not be a candidate or if he were to intimate as much, it is pointed out, his power to change legislation by executive order would disappear. So long as he is a potential candidate for reelection he will be a powerful force among the statesmen who must base their calculations on the possibility of Coolidge in the white house for another four years with priceless patronage to dispense. So long as there is a possibility that Coolidge is going to be president for another term, republican senators and representatives are going to give serious heed to any legislation Mr. Coolidge wants.

CUMMINS PREDICTS COOLIDGE OUT OF RACE.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 13.—(AP)—That President Coolidge will not be a candidate for reelection in 1928 was one of the predictions made by Senator Albert B. Cummins on his arrival here from Washington today.

"One doesn't know that President Coolidge will be a candidate," Mr. Cummins said. "My own prediction is that he will not be a candidate. I think he will have had enough of it by that time. It is an immense task and few men last through it."

"I think Mr. Coolidge has been a very successful president in all but one thing," said the senator, "and that is his policy toward agriculture."

Senator Cummins said that after his retirement next August he would return to his home here to write a history of his 28 years in public service.

The political upheaval in Iowa and other midwestern states presages a prolonged period of strife in the republican party which if allowed to continue will throw that party to the rocks, especially if the democrats maintain their solidarity, the senator believes. In his opinion the present "nominal" republican majority in the upper house of congress may disappear with the November election.

SUTTON TO OFFER JUNIOR COLLEGE PLAN ON FRIDAY

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta public schools, will present his plan for establishment of a junior college in Atlanta at the adjourned meeting of the board of education, to be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, he announced Tuesday.

Mr. Sutton intended to bring the matter to the attention of the board Tuesday, but inasmuch as another session of the board is to be held Friday, he is taking advantage of the interim to work over the plan he intends to outline.

If the board adopts his program, it is said the junior college will be a reality by September 28.

The tentative plan calls for abandonment of the present girls' high school building and the utilization of the old stockade building and the Atlanta Normal Training school as a nucleus for the junior college. A new girls' high school building would be constructed nearer the center of the city, high school population, according to the tentative plan as outlined informally by Mr. Sutton.

EDUCATION BOARD PAYS CONTRACTOR FOR EXCAVATIONS

Jim Maddox, contractor, will be paid $2,000 for excavation work done at the Virginia Avenue school in 1922, and a court suit to collect the money will be dropped, according to a vote of the Atlanta board of education Tuesday afternoon.

The board voted to pay approximately $2,000 principal and the remainder in interest. Mr. Maddox, through his attorneys, entered suit after the board's decision, claiming that the board was in breach of a contract entered into with him for the excavation work.

Mr. Sutton, attorney for Mr. Maddox, appeared in behalf of his client and promised to quash court action in the event the board would settle the account.

sition should be under the jurisdiction of the assistant superintendent in charge of business affairs. The program of new buildings and the extension of all old buildings (with the exception noted under 3 below) should be in charge of the school architect.

"3. In order to render the most effective service at the beginning of this building program, it is recommended that certain architects who have rendered satisfactory service in the past be retained for the projects for which they were previously responsible. This should only apply where plans for additions have been carefully worked out and also where the complete service has been of high quality."

Order of Projects.

"4. Concerning the order in which the projects should be started, it is recommended that the junior high school program be considered first and where possible, use former architects. In the junior high school program it is assumed that the recommendations for the negro junior high school be considered along with the rest of the program. Due to the high cost of land around the Yonge Street school, it may be necessary to build the junior high plant at the David T. Howard school as an alternate proposition.

"The next most urgent need concerns schools such as Stewart Avenue, Ormewood, Whitford, Candler Park, Morningstar, Davis, Garrie Steele, Dimmock, Rockdale and Wesley Avenue."

It is also going to be necessary to provide certain additional land to care for the above-mentioned projects. These purchases of course should be made at once. They are Candler Park, Morningstar, Moreland, Garrie Steele (Reynoldstown), Dimmock and Rockdale.

MORE ARRESTS SEEN IN DOUBLE MURDER

killers A. H. Byars near the same scene five years ago.

Earlier in the day officers and others expressed the belief that a maniac, or one of warped mind, is responsible for the double murder. In this connection, deputies recall the fatal shooting four years ago of A. H. Byars, a Mason salesman, within 200 yards of the present murder scene.

Circumstances were similar as a shotgun was used, at close range, and there was a young woman companion with Byars in the car. He had walked a short distance up the road in attempting to focus the headlights on his car so they would not glare.

Wilson wore a white shirt and no coat. There was a big hole over his right eye. Miss Smith, dressed in white, sustained a bad wound behind her head.

Robbery is not believed the motive for the double killing, and there is no house within the vicinity, whose tenants might object to the presence of a car in the road.

Couple Were Engaged.

The young couple were engaged to be married in September, according to Joseph H. Wilson, of Cross Keys, father of the young man, who lived at the home and worked in the Wilsons' off duty. Miss Smith lived here at the Y. W. C. A., being employed in the office of the Union Dry Goods company. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Smith, live at Fort Gaines, Ga.

Deputies believe that the murderer, after slaying both, dragged their bodies to the highway, placed them in the automobile, and then got in and drove with his ghastly cargo the quarter mile into the swamp where he thought the bodies would be safely hidden. Then he must have thrown them into the soft mud in the belief that they would sink from sight, the automobile had not been disassembled, nor any parts removed.

Miss Smith had been engaged to Wilson for several months, according to the latter's father and brother. She had been a frequent visitor to the latter's father and brother at the Wilson home in Cross Keys, they said, and they were only a few days ago had counseled his son to make plans for the marriage in September.

Lived at Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Mary A. Milner, matron in charge of the Y. W. C. A. dormitory, termed Miss Smith "a good girl" and said she was very out with any one except Mr. Wilson.

When the two failed to return Saturday night, all concerned believed that they had eloped. For this reason, deputies say, it had rained between Saturday and Monday evening in that section, the murders might have gone undiscovered for some time. The Swift creek road is little traveled.

Funeral services for Mr. Wilson were held at noon Tuesday from Hart's chapel, with the Rev. A. C. Baker, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church, in charge. Interment was in Fort Hill cemetery. The pallbearers were: O. K. Harrison, Ernest Davis, Frederick Yeates, Ernest Genone, J. E. Swann, Carl Rose.

He is survived by the mother, three brothers, J. P., M. P., and J. R. Wilson; two sisters, Mrs. I. L. Martin and Miss Cary Elizabeth Wilson.

FIREBUG IS BUSY ON EMORY CAMPUS

they were able to follow for some distance before losing the trail.

The boys were awake as late as 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, so it is known that the firebug visited the house between 2 o'clock and 7 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Prints of hands were found on the sill of the open window, but this indication that the firebug might have entered the house he tried to burn did not change the belief that his sole object was arson. Dr. Cox stated his positive belief that the man is determined.

Upon discovery of the attempt to fire the third fraternity house on the Emory campus, arrangements were made to patrol the campus with armed guards, and this will be continued indefinitely.

BORAH WILL OPEN FIGHT IN AUGUSTA

and file, to which the Old Guard politicians would be obliged to succumb. In these circumstances the suspicion exists that Borah is starting for the express purpose of building up sentiment in favor of the things he advocates—rather, against most of the things that President Coolidge and republican leaders advocate—in the thought that public opinion will force the republican party to conform to Borah's views. Such a state of affairs, it is argued, would make Borah a leader of so much power that he could become a serious contender for the republican nomination.

From that point of view the long tour which will be initiated by Borah in Georgia next Saturday becomes of extreme interest.

The senate will not assemble until November, and Borah is free to use the next four months in campaigning. It is reported that he will start from the west in time to make a series of speeches across the continent and finish up in the east, perhaps in New York, before the general elections in November.

According to those who claim to know something of what is in Borah's mind, he feels that the republican party is too out of touch with business and needs an overhauling. This will be a foremost democratic tenet in the senatorial and congressional campaign this year, with the contention backed by pointing to the expenditures of huge sums of money in the republican senatorial and gubernatorial contests in Pennsylvania as evidence that great business leaders are deeply concerned in the naming of republican party candidates for high offices.

Will Find Fertile Soil.

In view of reports that the agricultural west is in revolt against the Coolidge administration on account of the refusal of the president to endorse advanced farm aid legislation, according to a good many politicians, Senator Borah's fertile soil in which to sow his doctrinal seed. To many western republicans is attributed the opinion that President Coolidge is unable to persuade the eastern politicians and eastern business interests and has little knowledge

Fifti Reported About To Wed Milton Holden

Providence, R. I., July 13.—Joseph E. Widener, of Ekins Park, Pa., at his Newport home today denied published reports that his daughter, Mrs. Fifi Widener Holden, is engaged to Milton Holden.

Mrs. Holden, who obtained a divorce six months ago from Captain Holden, since the Newport season opened. When asked about the reported engagement she first denied it, then said it was not true.

In 1920 her elopement with Mr. Holden startled Philadelphia society. They had one child, now with Mrs. Holden in Newport.

BY LINTON WELLS.

En Route, Omaha, Neb., July 13.—The race of Edward Evans and myself around the world against time will end in New York tomorrow.

We will break by more than a week the 13-year-old record of John Henry Mears of 35 days, 21 hours, 45 minutes and 45 seconds and we will easily attain our aim which was to circle the earth in less than 30 days; one month. Our time will be a little more than 28 days.

We have already learned several times how dangerous it is to anticipate events but the road is straight ahead of us. As yet, we have not been consulting on our case told him that he was not to worry about either his health or his finances. His mind was at rest.

So he promptly got well! A few weeks later, hobbling about on crutches, he took a $5 a day job as salesman for blocks intended to secure automobiles in freight cars for shipment. With his first savings he began to experiment on similar devices.

The rest of his story is automobile history. His study of automobile load-making him a millionaire and cut the "damaged in transit" claims from an average of 85 per cent to an average of 45 cents. During the war he went to work for the government and despite his wife's heroic efforts his business collapsed.

He had learned his lesson, however. He was not worried but went back to Detroit at the end of the war and started in again. Needing capital, he offered a friend a half-share in a new enterprise for $1,200. The friend refused to invest.

Evans went on without the money. Three years later the half interest was worth $500,000.

Linton Wells has been a soldier of fortune but more especially a writer of fortune. He, too, is a southerner, born in Louisville, Ky., 34 years ago. At 14 he started into newspaper work, later entered the naval academy; resigned and went to Shanghai as a reporter. He left his paper to follow the Chinese republican government, wandered about the far east and the world for various newspapers and returned to New York in 1915.

Later in the year he went to Mexico to look over the troubles there; journeyed to the South Seas early in 1916 and returned to participate in the world war. From 1919 to 1921 he traveled through the far east for newspapers and syndicates, worked as a scenario writer in Hollywood; spent parts of 1923 with the Harding party in Latin America.

Again in 1924 the call called him to a scenario writer in Hollywood; spent parts of 1923 with the Harding party in Latin America.

Wells originated the plans for the present trip and spent the early part of 1926 perfecting the itinerary.

Atlantic City, N. J.—There are 15 unusually hungry chorus girls here. Their show closed, the theater was locked on them and no salaries were forthcoming. They protested so vigorously at the door that the police were summoned.

Had Every Misfortune.

We have had almost every misfortune that our carefully laid plans permitted and we have thwarted had luck by taking thought and chance. At Cherbourg we were met by an incapacitated plane. That was hard luck, and we met it by two night flights that put us back on schedule.

At Harbin we were forced to part by an unfortunate misunderstanding. The plane sent to carry us to Mukden was a one-seater. We split up to save the trip and luck smiled on us once and brought us together at Mukden.

Our carefully laid plans for crossing America crumpled, both times through accidents which we could not possibly avoid. This has slowed us up less than half a day.

In spite of all the strain, the misfortune, in humanely prolonged waking hours, meals missed, dust and heat, extreme exertion, it has been a great treat at the end of the war and worked when he set out, a better pal for adventures of any kind.

New York, July 13.—Edward S. Evans, one of the leading figures in the business life of the great industrial city of Detroit, and Linton Wells, a newspaper writer, took a wealth of "scrapping" experience into their effort, now nearing a successful completion, to break the world's record for circling the globe.

The disregard of danger which led them to make a night flight over Germany and to cross the Urals between Moscow and Omsk, 1,500 miles away in Asia, by plane, was not suddenly summoned for the incidents. Both men have met emergencies, danger and long odds 1 fore and torn away victory.

Ten years ago Edward S. Evans was torn by the agony of bacteremia which had formed a congestion in his right leg. His bank had failed and wiped him out. A friend had defaulted on a note bearing his indorsement. He had $10,000 less than nothing. The Jacksonville Beach (4 Days)..... 16.50

Today he is in the pink of health; he is head of Edward S. Evans & Co., Inc., of Detroit, a $3,000,000 business; he is the country's foremost leading bond-shipping manager; 30 per cent of all the automobiles shipped in this country are created and secured by devices which he has patented; he heads the United States Lumber Co., and owns his own lumber mills and forests and is the largest individual user of pine lumber in the United States. A recital of other holdings and interests would make a small catalog.

Evans is 45 years old. Made No Start at 45 a Day. Evans is a Virginian. His father, editor of a Lynchburg paper, was an aristocratic southerner with six children of whom Edward was the oldest. The family possessions were or understanding of the problems of the great agricultural areas in the central United States. Borah's trend of thought is believed to be somewhat along that line, and it will cause no surprise if he exploits it in his speech although adhering to his course of avoiding anything savoring of personal attack.

The United States is not yet a member of the world council. The reservations attached to the enabling resolution as conditions precedent to American entry are to be passed upon by the council and assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva in the autumn. Borah is expected to take a line of argument designed to arouse public sentiment against any participation whatever in the council, but how this can be effective if the league bodies agree to accept the American reservation is not clear. One suspicion is that Borah hopes that if the league does not act before the next congress assembled in 1927, he may be able to persuade the senate to withdraw its ratification of the enabling resolution.

Lady Astor Stages "Show" MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT LOOK ON AGHAST In Commons for Americans

London, July 13.—One of the most successful meetings in British parliamentary history, satisfactory to almost all concerned, was recorded when the irrepressible Lady Astor, for the entertainment of 850 American college tourists, staged a burlesque session of the house of commons in the same historic hall where statesmen argue daily the policies of the British empire.

Professors, students and teachers traveling under the auspices of the Chicago Art Institute guild were quick to see the possibilities in the idea offered by Lady Astor, who was assisted in her fun-making by Sir Samuel Chapman, a fellow member of parliament.

Two hours before the commons was to meet Lady Astor and Sir Samuel led the American party into the deserted hall. Placing her guests at seats behind the empty benches Lady Astor proceeded to "call parliament into session."

She sent Sir Samuel to the speaker's stand and then proceeded to make a burlesque speech, refusing to heed the "speaker" when he ruled her out of order.

The audience from the other side of the Atlantic greatly enjoyed the show, which is believed to be the first of its kind ever to be offered in the dignified halls of parliament. Professors and students joined in shouting "atta-boy," voicing approval of the vocal efforts of Lady Astor.

The din finally was heard in the offices of the commons and members considering the coal strike, preparing for ponderous discussion of the Anglo-French debt agreement and other serious matters of state rushed into the hall to find the cause of the riot which they thought was in progress.

Lady Astor continued her speech to its conclusion and while the Americans cheered the uninvited members of the commons looked on aghast.

The jury declared Officer Newton killed Reinhart in the execution of his duty in the protection of citizens. The jury gave no finding as to the motive of the shooting by the elder Reinhart.

TRIPLE SLAYER SUSPECT JAILED

Chicago, July 13.—(AP)—James Granite, or Gracius, sought in connection with the slaying of three persons in Cicero Sunday night, was caught by the police tonight while in the act of holding up a pedestrian. He was reported to have confessed to the slayings.

Granite was caught in Cicero, scene of the triple slayings Sunday night of Ludwig Rose, taxi driver; Frederick Hein, Sunday school treasurer; and Miss Marie Blang, his companion, a teacher in the same Sunday school.

A policeman saw Granite with a pistol pressed against the ribs of another man, who was backed up against a wall. The officer struck the holdup man on the head with his own pistol, then, noticing that the robber had no left thumb, knew that he had the slayer.

Granite, sought since the capture of Thomas McWain, his companion, told the police, they said, that he shot Hein and Miss Blang, but that McWain killed the taxi driver.

The two men Sunday night kidnapped a taxi driver, bound him in his car and drove through Cicero until they came to a street where Hein and

Army of Police Guards Spanish Premier in Paris

Paris, July 13.—(AP)—The catcalls and boos which greeted General Primo de Rivera upon his arrival in Paris last night, the socialists, communists and radicals objecting to his presence here, were absent today, as the Spanish premier-dictator's movements were all official functions, attended by an immense number of uniformed and plainclothes police.

Exactly five hundred police lined the Champs Elysees from the Spanish embassy in the Avenue George V to the Quai d'Orsay, when Primo de Rivera went to the foreign office to sign the Moroccan protocol. There was surveillance on an equal scale, as he deposited a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at the Arc de Triomphe, when he called on President Doumergue and when he proceeded to the war ministry for luncheon.

This show of strength by the authorities apparently caused would-be manifestos to refrain from any hostile demonstration. But, foiled by their designs upon the Spanish premier, the communists turned their attention to the sultan of Morocco. The official reception to Moulay Youssef in the city hall developed into a struggle in which the brass bands of the republican guards and cheers of the admirers were hard put to drown the hisses and catcalls of the communists, and the "Marcelline" barely succeeded in smothering the strains of the internationale as rendered by the leather-lunged agitators.

STORAGE STOCKS OF FARM STUFFS LESS THAN IN 1925

Washington, July 13.—(AP)—Old storage stocks of agricultural products on July 1 were less, with the exception of butter and cheese, than on the same date last year, the department of agriculture announced today.

Cranberry butter was estimated at $6,836,000 pounds against $3,847,000 last year; American cheese $3,847,000 pounds against 46,408,000; case eggs 9,127,000 cases against 9,482,000; frozen eggs 45,074,000 pounds against 38,379,000; frozen poultry 36,986,000 against 55,562,000; lard 120,680 pounds against 145,919,000.

MRS. MCCORMICK FUND IS CENTER OF COURT FIGHT

New York, July 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick enjoys an income of $600,000 a year from the trust fund created for her benefit in 1917 by her father, John D. Rockefeller.

That was brought out today before Supreme Court Justice Mahoney during argument over the disposition of $7,500,000 in stock dividends which have accrued to the $1,200,000 in Standard Oil of Indiana stock on the original trust fund.

Mrs. McCormick's counsel says the $7,500,000 income on the original fund and therefore belongs to Mrs. McCormick. That view is contested by three institutions that are expected beneficiaries, their counsel contending the stock dividend should be kept intact a part of the principal.

Divers Battled For Nine Months To Get S-51 Bell

Pittsburgh, July 13.—(AP)—The story of a nine months' battle of wits for possession of the bell of the S-51 many feet below the ocean's surface off Block Island, was told here today for the first time by Francis G. Smith, deep sea diver, who helped raise the submarine.

"It was a question of the witless man getting the bell," was the way Smith put it. Smith, attached to the United States bureau of mines here, was awarded the bell by Lieutenant Commander Edward Elsborg, in charge of salvage operations.

Smith told the story in this wise: "Secretly most of the divers decided to 'steal' the bell as a personal prize.

It was then the men went down one would report the bell in place on the sub's conning tower while another would report contrary. I had detached the bell and hidden it on a line on a side of the submarine. Several days elapsed before all hands were convinced the bell was gone.

Later, Smith said, he replaced the bell on the conning tower. He added that when salvage operations were resumed in April he fastened it to his diving belt and brought it up.

"Another controversy arose as to whether I was entitled to the bell," Smith continued. "This argument lasted until Lieutenant Commander Elsborg gave it to me."

National Drive For Dry Statute Changes Starts

Washington, July 13.—A nationwide campaign by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment for modification of the Volstead act was announced here today. The association is organizing local groups for collecting funds for the drive.

In addition to seeking election to congress of those favoring modification, the association also will work through referendums in New York, Wisconsin, Montana, Nevada, Colorado, California, Missouri and other states, "in which it is obtaining pledges from the present senators and congressmen that they will support modification if their states or districts declare for it by vote."

The announcement was made through the voluntary committee of the District of Columbia, which said that "the association faces the greatest struggle since it was founded—and the greatest opportunity."

It expressed the hope that those approached "will help this patriotic work."

ARMY AND NAVY HOSPITALS TO GET PRE-WAR WHISKY

Tampa, Fla., July 13.—(AP)—Federal Judge Lake Jones signed a final decree of forfeiture here today on 40 barrels of 110-proof pre-war whiskey which will be distributed to army and navy hospitals throughout the country for medicinal purposes.

The liquor was seized at Key West in 1922 when it was shipped from such cotton, they added, could be from the buds and young bolls so that little protection is afforded for boll weevils or other pests and diseases. Such cotton, they added, could be picked with less "trash" or broken bract material and the grades would be improved.

SUPERLETTE WINS RACE AT UNUSUAL ODDS OF 1 TO 100

New York, July 13.—(AP)—Superlette, winner of the fifth race at Empire City today, was quoted at the unusual odds of 1 to 100 to win. Flechita, the only other starter, came to the post quoted at 60 to 1. Jockey Fator was up on Superlette.

WIDOW SUES COUNT New York Widow Says She Advanced $6,200.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
New York, July 13.—(AP)—The Iowa Court, Philippe Antoine d'Ornano, who wears on his left hand a sapphire ring given by Napoleon to his ancestor, a marshal of France, is said to have obtained from Mrs. Josephine B. White, wealthy New York widow, will be a topic tomorrow in supreme court here.

Mrs. White is suing the nobleman, said to be a friend of Gloria Swanson's husband, the Marquis de la Cour, for $6,200, she says, that she advanced him between April 1925 and April 5, 1926.

Her attorney, Raymond A. McCoubrey, will appear before Justice Mahoney tomorrow and demand a summary judgment on the ground that d'Ornano has no defense.

Mrs. White, socially prominent, and with a residence at the Hotel Ansonia, has sailed for Europe. But in papers filed last Friday she recited $900 went to pay the court's hotel bills; the Roosevelt; $2,500 was loaned for a business venture which she believed he bet at race tracks, and more went to buy him clothing.

She declared he telephoned, or visited her, almost daily after meeting her, until about May 15, last, when d'Ornano motored to Mamaroneck, N. Y., with a young French woman and they were married. The newlyweds are said to be summing in the Adirondacks.

IN LOVE WITH WALES Another Girl Reported Smit- ten by Prince.

London, July 13.—Another London girl has fallen in love with the Prince of Wales.
At a ball, Wales, exercising the royal prerogative of speaking to anyone without an introduction, went up to a lonely looking girl sitting in a corner and asked for a dance.

When it was over, the shocked hostess hinted to him that the girl he had been dancing with was her nursery governess.

"Perhaps you can help me to obtain another dance with her," Wales replied.

CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION DECREASES 8,000 BARRELS

New York, July 13.—The daily average gross crude oil production in the States decreased 8,000 barrels for the week ended July 10, totaling 2,062,600 barrels, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. The daily average production east of California, 1,430,000 barrels, a decrease of 12,000 barrels.

JURY EMPANELLED TO PASS ON FATE OF FRANK BOWLER

Clarksville, Tenn., July 13.—(AP)—Empanelling of a jury to hear the trial of Frank Bowler, 31, charged with murder in connection with the death of Miss Louise Griffin, 19, with whom Bowler is alleged to have been infatuated, was completed at the forenoon session of Montgomery county circuit court today.

Bowler, married and the father of six children, is alleged to have shot the young woman while they were riding in an automobile last year. Bowler has denied the shooting, and it is said, will contend that the girl shot herself.

After the shooting Bowler is alleged to have driven over the country for eight hours with the girl's body before bringing it to an undertaking establishment here.

National Prohibition By Force Is Scored By Theodore Graeber

Baltimore, July 13.—(AP)—National prohibition by force, blue laws, anti-tobacco laws, and other reform legislation are "hostile to the best interests of the state and religion," Theodore Graeber, of Concordia seminary, St. Louis, told 5,000 delegates to the 34th international Lutheran Walther league convention today.

The speaker denounced use of "police power in behalf of Christian citizenship."

NEW COTTON TYPES FOUND BY EXPERTS

Washington, July 13.—(AP)—Discovery of several new types of cotton was reported today by a group of bureau of plant industry experts who have just returned from a three months' exploration trip in the West Indies and South America.

Investigators O. F. Cook, J. W. Hubbard and F. C. Baker said that one of the new types discovered has bracts that are open or tumbled out from the buds and young bolls so that little protection is afforded for boll weevils or other pests and diseases. Such cotton, they added, could be picked with less "trash" or broken bract material and the grades would be improved.

ROCKEFELLER REFUSES John D., Jr., Doesn't Want Sons Photographed.

Portland, Oregon, July 13.—(AP)—Believing that newspaper photographs may cause his sons to get false notions of their own importance, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has refused to allow pictures to be taken of his three sons.

Arriving here yesterday on a western tour, Mr. Rockefeller was greeted by newspaper men and photographers as he stepped from his special car.

"All right, boys, what'll you have?" he asked.

One of the cameramen suggested a family picture of Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller and their three sons.

"Sorry to have to disappoint you, but it can't be done. Hard enough to bring boys up now without putting false notions in their heads," responded the visitor. "You can get all the photographs of me you want—I'm hard boiled and too old to be spoiled—but I'll have to ask you to lay off the family."

"You know the public expects a rich man's son to make a fool of himself, anyway. It's quite a handicap for a young fellow to start out under."

"For my part, I've tried to disappoint the public a little bit. I don't believe I've quite lived up to what the pulpit expected. At least, I hope not."

Lawrence, 18; Winthrop, 13, and Davis, 11, are the three sons in the party.

LUXURY IS DEPLORED Americans Becoming Lazy, Says Miss Weeks.

Philadelphia, July 13.—(AP)—Luxury is making Americans too lazy to devote sufficient time to education, and the race is becoming "a marvelous crowd of the ancient order of rest," in the opinion of Miss Nanette F. Weeks, of the American Baptist Publication society. She thus characterized them in addressing the Universalists' Sunday School convention.

"The younger generation," she said, "is entitled to four primary rights—social, mental, spiritual and physical development. We should see that they get them."

"Too many future citizens get their education and ideals from the movies, and it is a poor influence. In one year more money was spent on luxuries in America than was ever spent on education. Cosmetics used in this country cost more in a year than the salaries of all the primary and second grade school teachers. It is time we work, but we can work if necessary. We are sliding into the marvelous crowd of the ancient order of rest."

ROAD WILL TEST RATES UPON OIL

Washington, July 13.—(AP)—The Atlantic Coast Line in two cases docked in the supreme court today would test out the application of state taxes upon shipments of oil to various points within the state by the Standard Oil company from its plant at Wilmington, N. C.

The railroad lost in the lower courts in its contention that the shipments which reached Wilmington by tank steamers from other states constituted interstate commerce and was subject to higher rates prescribed by the interstate commerce commission.

The oil company was successful in establishing that the oil, when transferred from the tank steamers had ceased its interstate journey upon being placed in tanks at Wilmington and was therefore entitled to the lower rates prescribed by the state to other points in North Carolina.

START WAR ON SHEIKS

Drug Store Cowboys Are Sought by Jury.

York, S. C., July 13.—(AP)—The York county grand jury today declared war upon the drug store cowboy.

Asserting that hundreds of young white men over the county and state were leading without visible means of support and assuming the role of "sheiks and drug store cowboys," the grand jury recommended that rural police "round up, order to get and upon failure to do so arrest them for vagrancy."

"Numbers of young men, some of them very young, are in one way and another being contaminated by the accursed whisky evil that is raging throughout the land," the jury report said. "We sincerely hope that something may be done to cause these young men to take heed before it is too late."

Kansas City Star Will Be Owned By Paper's Staff

Kansas City, Mo., July 13.—(AP)—Former transfer of the Kansas City Star and its morning edition, The Times, to Irwin Kirkwood, and associates, probably will be made some time this week.

The sale of the newspaper properties yesterday by Mr. Kirkwood as representative of The Star staff for $11,000,000 by the university trustees of the William B. Nelson trust, was followed by the approval of the entire middle west. Hundreds of telegrams and telephone calls were received by the new management today congratulating them and the trustees.

Shortly after noon today The Star announced that a new company is to be incorporated to take over the ownership and publication of The Star and The Times. The company will be a Missouri corporation, owned exclusively by Mr. Kirkwood and members of The Star staff. None of the stock in the company, which will have $2,500,000 paid up capital stock, will be offered for sale outside the organization.

The organization is to remain as it has for many years, the announcement said, with Irwin Kirkwood, publisher; A. F. Seest, general manager; Ralph Stout, managing editor; George B. Longan, assistant managing editor, and H. J. Haskell, chief editorial writer.

Although the university trustees refused to divulge the amounts of the offers received, Walter S. Dickey, owner and editor of the Kansas City Journal-Post, one of the unsuccessful bidders, announced today he had offered $8,000,000 in cash for The Star, exclusive of the ground and building. In addition, he offered, he said, $100,000 a year for a 20-year lease on the ground and building, with an option to buy them for the sum of $2,000,000.

In The Star's announcement, it was revealed the plan of purchase made the financing possible without the necessity of going outside for help.

J. P. MORGAN BUYS FLEISCHMANN YEAST INTEREST

New York, July 13.—(AP)—J. P. Morgan & Co. announced today that they had purchased an interest in the Fleischmann company, manufacturers of yeast, at a private sale from certain members of the Fleischmann family.

The number of shares covered by the arrangement, it was said, represented only a small percentage of the company's outstanding stock. A large majority of the stock will still be held by the Fleischmann family, who will continue in full control of its management.

The bankers explained that their purchase of the shares was for investment purposes only and that they were not acting for other interests which might be seeking control. It was reported in Wall street that more than 400,000 shares, part of the 1,000,000 shares of Fleischmann, chairman of the board, had been turned over to the bankers for a consideration of between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. The company has 4,500,000 common shares outstanding in addition to a small amount of preferred.

Troy, N. C., July 13.—(AP)—W. C. Sonner, Jr., who was seriously wounded on the night of July 7 when Miss Jean Braswell was shot to death on a lonely mountain road, today continued to make what surgeons described as rapid strides toward recovery.

Sheriff Robert F. McFarland, of Polk county, was at his home in Columbus and no announcement with reference to prosecution of the case was issued.

At the Troy hospital it was stated that no warrant has been served upon young Sonner, and no guard has been stationed at the institution.

George E. Merrick, president and developer of these properties, will act as president and chairman of the new corporation's board of directors, with his associates as officers in various capacities.

The new corporation was created as a plan primarily of national financing under which will be brought to completion a 10-year program of development and sale of Coral Gables properties. ALBANY CITY HEADS PLAN BIG BOND ISSUE

Albany, Ga., July 13.—(AP)—With the city growing rapidly both in area and population, the city commission has concluded that a bond issue of approximately $200,000 to care for certain needed municipal improvements is inevitable, and are making plans to submit the question to the people within a few weeks.

Although definite action has not, and cannot, be taken until the tax assessors report, the commission has prepared a tentative schedule, subject to change, showing the proposed division of the issue.

The largest item will be for improving the present water supply. It is planned to issue bonds for $35,000 to care for drilling a new well, buying a new pump, and installing other needed equipment. It is also planned to expend $30,000 for additional lighting equipment. Approximately $15,000 will be spent, under the proposed plan, in extending the present system of storm sewers. To care for additional street paving, $30,000 will be included in the issue. Extension of water mains is being allowed $10,000. It is further proposed to use $30,000 for the construction of a sub fire station.

Boy Killed, Two Seriously Hurt In Auto Crash

Macon, Ga., July 13.—(AP)—Mack Bateman, 16, son of Rome Bateman, Bibb county peach grower, was killed and Stanley Dumas, Macon druggist and peach grower, and Albert Henderson, negro farm hand, were injured at midnight Monday when a Central railway freight engine struck a motor truck in which they were returning to Macon at the Elm street grade crossing.

Hospital officials said Tuesday that Mr. Dumas was not seriously hurt, although he was badly bruised and cut about the body. The negro suffered a crushed left leg and internal injuries. Doctors said his injuries were serious and may prove fatal.

Bateman, who was driving the truck was badly mangled, his chest being crushed. The freight locomotive was rounding a curve at a moderate rate, it is said, and when it hit the truck, the machine was knocked clear of the crossing and the occupants covered in the wreckage.

Rome Bateman is one of the best known peach growers of this section. He is a member of the firm of Bateman Fruit exchange, which recently shipped two carloads of peaches to England, the first carlots to be sent abroad.

Railway officials as well as county authorities are investigating the accident, which is the second fatal grade crossing accident to occur here in the past several weeks.

INDUSTRIAL GAS RATES REVISED; PRICES REDUCED

The Georgia public service commission Tuesday approved new industrial gas rates sought by the Georgia Railway and Power company which will enable the company to make concessions to large users of gas at times when the gas load is not at peak capacity, according to announcement by E. M. Price, rate expert of the commission.

Mr. Price said the proposed concessions in rates will be of value to the company in selling surplus gas at times when household users are not making heavy demands on the mains. The reduction will carry with it a possibility of revision of household rates at a later date, according to Mr. Price.

The company also was permitted to make concessions in water-heating rates to large users of this service. The gas rate is based on a cost charge of $3 a thousand cubic feet plus a demand charge of 70 cents a month per 100 cubic feet per hourly demand.

177 Golfers Tee Off Today in State Tournament

Watts Gunn Enters Race for Georgia State Golf Crown

Brookhaven Course Will Be Scene of Sixth Annual Grind for State Title—Play Will Start at 8 O'Clock This Morning.

BY ROY E. WHITE.

Ambitious golfers, 177 strong, from all parts of the state of Georgia, representing the cream of Georgia players seeking the Georgia state championship as their wreath of victory will tee off today in the 18-hole qualifying round of the sixth annual state tournament over the Brookhaven course.

Bobby Jones, holder of the British and American championships and the American amateur, has been asked by officers of the Georgia State Golf association to act as referee Saturday afternoon when the finals of the Georgia championship will be played.

Watts Gunn, runner-up of the 1925 tournament at Columbus, Ga., and a partner to Bobby Jones on his recent invasion of England as a member of the famous Walker cup team, was one of the last-minute entries for the 1926 Georgia title. Returning Sunday from a long journey that carried him to England and back, with only one day's rest, he shot a 74 in a practice round Tuesday afternoon. In this round, Gunn had an eagle two on the par four 280-yard eighth hole and a birdie three on the ninth hole. Gunn went out in a 36 but fell behind on the last nine and took a 38.

Gene Cook, well known young East Lake golfer, will defend his Georgia state title against one of the strongest ever entered. Cook does not have to qualify and is automatically placed in the championship flight. He played several holes in practice Tuesday afternoon and showed the same grace and ease in his shooting that won him the coveted title last year.

Watts Gunn will tee off today at

GIANTS' PILOT DENIES REPORT OF PROTECTION

Pittsburgh, July 13.—(AP)—Explaining his action today in asking police protection for members of the New York National league baseball team, during the present series with Pittsburgh, Rube Bressanah, in charge of the Giants in the absence of Manager John J. McGraw, said tonight he had learned from a source he considered "pretty straight" sources that the New York players were in danger of an attack as a result of an altercation between Catcher Snyder of the Giants and Coach Onslow, of the Pirates in New York, June 20. He said it was "only common sense" to guard against possible disorder.

Bressanah, however, denied reports that he had appealed to city police for protection, declaring he had made his request to Milt Bailey, head of the Forbes field police. He said he had asked Bailey for additional officers to stand guard under the grandstand where the players in going to and from their clubhouses, "might meet up with each other" and "stage an outbreak of a serious kind."

The Giants' acting manager said he had acted solely on his own responsibility without informing the players. Bailey told him, Bressanah said, that he would be all right, and that he replied that "that was good enough for me."

Nunnally and Hugh Minnich also have a chance at the title. A merry battle will be staged by members of the Druid Hills and East Lake teams, for each have two legs on the handsome Bourne trophy, which will become the permanent property of the club winning the tournament.

Elaborate Trophies. Trophies for this year's tournament are the most elaborate ever offered, in addition to the traditional R. H. Martin, well-known Atlanta sportsman and chairman of the 1926 Georgia state tournament committee. The trophies are a handsome permanent trophy for the first time. There will also be trophies for the low medalist, the team trophy, along with a medal to the member of the team who made a medal to the defeated eight in the championship flight and trophies and medals to winners and runners-up in each of the flights.

At present there are enough players to make 11 flights of 16 players each with one player over. The regulations point to another flight which will be more than half filled. Match play will start Thursday with one round. Two rounds will be played on Friday with the finals on Saturday. The championship round will consist of 36 holes. Five in other flights will be only 18 holes.

Members of the Capital City Golf club and others connected with the 1926 Georgia state golf championship tournament are jubilant over the large numbers of entries and stated that the tournament should be the greatest in the history of Georgia.

Beckett Gets Busy. Howard Beckett, professional at the Brookhaven Country club, returned to Atlanta Sunday on the Bobby Jones "Special" and lost no time in getting to the Brookhaven club where he busied himself in making the course ready for the tournament. All day Monday and Tuesday he was busy with last-minute details and late Tuesday afternoon announced that all was ready. The course is in excellent shape.

Lowry Arnold, president of the Georgia State Golf association; Fielding Wallace, of Augusta, Georgia, vice president; and Lloyd Parks, secretary of the association, have done their part in the arranging for the convenience and comfort of the visitors.

Social Features. Members of the local committee, Vezey Rainwater, Tom Paine, Keith Conway and R. H. Martin, have left no stone unturned in preparation for the tournament and in addition to their work at the course, have arranged social features for Thursday and Friday nights.

Seeking All-Star Football Game

Philadelphia, July 13.—(AP)—Negotiations are under way for a football game between all-star teams of the east and south as a feature of the sesqui-centennial exposition next November. At the suggestion of Champ Pickens, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., that a gridiron battle between an all-southern and an all-eastern eleven be arranged for the Municipal stadium shortly after Thanksgiving, sesqui-centennial athletic officials today wrote some of the leading colleges asking that permission for the contest be granted. Letters were sent to Princeton, Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, Dartmouth, Columbia, Lafayette, Lehigh, Brown, Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson and Colgate. Permission of the southern institutions

Mehlhorn Second in Shawnee Meet

Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., July 13.—(AP)—Johnny Farrell, of Quaker Ridge, led the field today at the end of the first half of the 72-hole individual play in the Shawnee open golf tournament. He had a card of 71-69—140 for the 36 holes, five better than Bill Mehlhorn, of Chicago, and Bobby Cruikshank, of Progress, who tied for second.

Richards, Kinsey Lose to Germans

Berlin, July 13.—(AP)—The play of Dr. Heinz Landmann, of Darmstadt, in the Berlin Red-White Tennis club meet in defeating Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey has caused German tennis followers much elation. Dr. Landmann is now hailed as a discovery in the international field. He is a comparative newcomer in international tennis. His merit, however, was illustrated in 1923, when he captured the German championship by defeating Baron von Kehrline, who recently competed at Wimbledon. The German player's victory over Kinsey yesterday was 6-1, 6-0, 6-4, while his victory over Richards today was 1-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

Hole-in-One Made By Moreland Smith

Moreland Smith, well-known Druid Hills golfer, supplied the pre-Georgia state golf tournament gossip at Brookhaven Country club Tuesday afternoon when he shot an eagle one on the short sixth hole, which measures only 153 yards.

Needless to say, Moreland Smith is now a full fledged member of Atlanta's hole-in-one club and is entitled to all privileges and benefits derived therefrom—it there is any benefits to be derived.

Smith was so overcome by his miraculous tee shot into the cup on No. 6 hole, that he was able to shoot par golf on only six of the remaining 12 holes. His card for the 18 holes was 43 going out and 40 coming in—an 83.

Others who trod over the 6,143 yard course Tuesday afternoon gave aspirants to the Georgia state championship something to think about during the night. Watts Gunn, runner up to Gene Cook, of Columbus, Ga., last year in the Georgia state tournament, supposed by state from a month of riding and golfing in England with Bobby Jones as a member of the Walker cup team, and who arrived at Atlanta Sunday from Columbus, Ohio, where he participated in the American open championship last week, shot a 74 in practice Tuesday afternoon. Watts shot an eagle two on the eighth hole and came back with a birdie three on the ninth hole.

Billy Jones and Mike Jones, two members of the Druid Hills team, had good rounds Tuesday. Billy shot a 73, three over par, while Mike shot a 78. James J. Dickey, president of the Capital City club, negotiated the 18 holes in a 79. Charles Nunnally shot a 78, while Hugh Nunnally scored an 81.

Valdosta Team Going Good. One of the teams entered in the Oliver-Converse team from the Valdosta Country club, Valdosta, Ga., Max, Billy and John Oliver, with George Converse composed the team. W. M. Oliver, well-known Valdosta merchant and father of the three young south Georgia stars, is championing the team and is also entered in the tourney. George Converse led the Valdosta entries in practice rounds with a 76. Billy Oliver was second with a 77. Max Oliver followed with 78 and John Oliver followed with 80.

Johnny Bachman, of Rome, Ga., former state champion, one of the favorites to win the title, had a good round Tuesday afternoon but did not make known his score. Gene Cook, present title holder; Chick Ridley, Vezey Rainwater, Dave and Charlie Black and others also played good golf Tuesday afternoon in the practice rounds.

BIG RECEPTION BEING PLANNED FOR NET STARS

New York, July 13.—America's women tennis players and the Wightman cup they won abroad are home again.

Early Wednesday morning the White Star line Majestic will nose into its pier in the Hudson river and a big reception will be accorded Mary K. Browne, Helen Willis, Elizabeth Ryan and Mrs. M. Z. Jessup. A huge floral wreath will be presented to Miss Browne, team captain, by Jones W. Merseau, president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis association.

Other tennis officials will be on hand to assure the returning players that their gallant play in the face of heavy odds—the untimely loss of Helen Willis—has been appreciated. At the Hotel Vanderbilt, in the evening, silver replicas of the Wightman cup will be presented to the women stars during a testimonial dinner.

For once, Miss Willis is somewhat out of the picture, and it is upon Mary K. Browne, the ruddy-faced veteran team captain, that interest will center. For Miss Browne, when Helen was forced out of the hard-court championships, went on to fight Suzanne Lenglen in the final round of the French open.

For every American present at the racing club matches a patriotic thrill.

Lee, Hill Lead Alabama Shoot

Mobile, Ala., July 13.—(AP)—T. K. Lee, of Birmingham, and Walton Hill, of Montgomery, carried off the honors at the second day of shooting of the Alabama Trapshooting association tournament held at the traps of the Gulf City Gun club today. Lee became the state doubles champion of the day. Hill broke 195 out of 200 targets, continuing his excellent shooting of the first day. The runner-up to Hill was E. D. Flynn, of Mobile, breaking 191 out of 200 targets in the singles events. In the doubles Lee turned in a score of 92 out of 100, Flynn, of Mobile, finishing as runner-up with 89 out of 100.

Rogers Wins Title In Penn Tourney

Pittsburgh, July 13.—(AP)—Johnny Rogers, Schanopin Country club pro, today won the Pennsylvania state open golf championship, played on the Allegheny Country club links, by scoring 280 for the 72-hole test. Jack Hutchison, of Chicago, who led the field at the end of yesterday's play, and Lew Diegel, of New York, finished in a tie for second place with 282.

The last 18 holes of the tournament were played in a driving rain. Joe Turnesa, of New York, champion of 1925, did not defend his title.

Final Workouts Held By Paul Berlenbach And Jack Delaney

Fighters To Do Only Light Work To Retain Condition Until Bout—Followers Predict That Jack Will Land the Right Punch.

New York, July 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., today put aside his training gloves after a vigorous campaign of preparation for what gives indication of being a record light-heavyweight championship conflict—his second attempt to wrest the 175-pound crown from the rugged Paul Berlenbach, of Astoria, N. Y., at Ebbets field Thursday night.

Battle plans of the N. Y. England challenger, reaching New York ahead of his arrival here tomorrow, promise an early effort for a knockout triumph. Profiting by his experience in their last encounter when Berlenbach answered a four-round knockdown with a stirring finish which saved the crown, Delaney's followers announce, he had ventured into the press box there within the first five rounds by a finishing right.

Champ to Weigh More. The fourth round is widely regarded as Delaney's already, for once he stopped Berlenbach in that frame and in the second battle, he knocked him down.

Information from camps of the two fighters today indicated that the champion would probably send at least three pounds higher than his Bridgeport foe. Berlenbach weighed 178, but expected to pare off three pounds tomorrow night in the drying out process. Delaney's poundage was announced as 172—the mark at which he expects to enter the ring Thursday night.

Despite optimistic reports from the camp of the champion and his success in beating off the challenge in Delaney in their last encounters, wagers today continue to show the contender a slight favorite. As a matter of fact, the margin was slightly greater than it had been last week, increasing from 11-10 to 6-5.

They recall that Young Stribling was expected to do terrific damage to the champion, yet faded when the test came and they also recall that Berlenbach bounced off the canvas when sent by Johnny Risko. He always comes up before the count of nine.

Failure of the weather man to look with favor upon the occasion will postpone the match to Friday night, the New York state athletic commission said today. In the event that Friday night also brings rain the bout will be staged Saturday.

Light work is the order for today and tomorrow and from now until the men enter the ring the promoter, Humbert Fugazy, will have a deputy in each camp. Fugazy maintains that after the fight on Thursday, he will confer with Paddy Mulren in regard to a match between Harry Willis, negro heavyweight, and either Delaney or Berlenbach, at Ebbets field, in September.

Arrangement of this contest undoubtedly would interfere to a great extent with plans for the heavyweight championship battle between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, a site for which still is in question.

Luis Firpo Signs To Fight Indian

Indianapolis, Ind., July 13.—(AP)—Luis Firpo, of New York, Molokah Indian heavyweight, has been signed to meet Louis Angelo Firpo at Buenos Aires, September 10 in a 10-round bout, according to an announcement here today by Max Meyer, gate manager. Gates recently won a decision over Johnny Risko, of Cleveland on a foul.

ATLANTA'S Civic Clubs

VISITORS have always marveled at the apparent ease with which Atlanta accomplishes her civic enterprises. Atlanta's esprit de corps is as famous as her hospitality. And it is this splendid community spirit that actuates her magnanimous response to the Community Chest. It stands squarely behind the constructive activities of the Chamber of Commerce---it inspires its Industrial Bureau---the Advertising Atlanta Commission.

But Atlanta's spirit---her community pride---would be an undirected, forceless emotion if it were not for her Civic Clubs. Through these loyal organizations Atlanta's spirit is directed into constructive, tangible channels.

The Inter-Civic Council, officered by sagacious leaders who are thoroughly imbued with the Atlanta spirit, discharges an important function as a veritable Clearing House for the individual civic bodies of the city. It provides a direct channel for co-operation when cooperation is needed. And it does so without restraining the freedom of thought and action which has been the real key to Atlanta's rapid advance as a great metropolis of the South.

No catalog of Atlanta's virtues would be complete unless it contained a record of her civic organizations. To them Atlanta owes a vote of thanks---a debt of gratitude!

BEUTAS BUYS TRACT ON PACE'S FERRY ROAD

A tract of 71 acres fronting 1,935 feet on Pace's Ferry road, was purchased Tuesday by John W. Beutas, one of the officials of the B-W Construction company, which is erecting the Sears-Roebuck building on Ponce de Leon avenue. The property was purchased from B. F. Coggins, of Atlanta.

Mr. Beutas said after careful investigation and personal inspection he and his Chicago associates became convinced Atlanta is destined for tremendous expansion within the next few years and practically any investment made in local real estate would be an extremely wise investment. "I bought the property," Mr. Beutas said, "because I like Atlanta immensely and because I have great faith in the city's future. It may be that will decide to build my home on this tract at some later date, but my plans in this direction are not definite. I am very much impressed with Atlanta and have been won over by its spirit of progress and prosperity."

The property bought by Mr. Beutas lies on the northeast side of Pace's Ferry road, beginning at Nancy's creek and running for 1,935 feet along the road. The purchase price was not revealed, but it is understood that it brought approximately $1,000 an acre.

Mr. Beutas was represented in the transaction by John C. Lusk, Atlanta real estate dealer. He said that the land was not for resale. Engineers are busy making topographical maps and the advisability of dividing the tract into building estates will be considered at a later date.

JURY CANNOT RECALL TRUE BILL, IS RULING

Grand juries in Georgia have no authority to recall indictments after they have been returned into court and marked as "true bills," according to a decision handed down Tuesday by the supreme court in a case of Gibson against the state appealed from the Washington circuit court.

After such indictments have been returned to the court they fall under the jurisdiction of the courts themselves and the grand juries have no power to change the indictments into "no bills" at the same term of court.

RADIO EQUIPMENT GIFT TO SCHOOLS BY ATWATER-KENT

Atlanta public schools will be "radio equipped" this fall, according to action of the board of education Tuesday in accepting an offer of W. D. V. Hopkins, president of the Hopkins Auto company, and local representative of the Atwater-Kent company.

Mr. Hopkins said his connections have offered to give free of any charge or obligation between 65 and 70 completely equipped receiving sets to be installed in Atlanta schools. It is estimated that these will cost between $10,000 and $13,500, depending on the equipment. The sets will have loud speakers and be of the six-tube type.

Mrs. Ed A. Pierce, prominent in parent-teacher activities of the city, following action of the board, expressed delight at the offer and congratulated members of the board on accepting the generous offer of the Atwater-Kent concern.

Tea was served in the dining room, brightened with bowls of exquisite yellow and pink rosebuds. Entertaining in the dining room, were Miss Mary Brown, Miss Mary Bialock, Miss Gretchen Estes, Miss Frances Hurt and Mrs. Stanley Hastings.

A Baby in the Home

NO KING on his golden throne demands and receives more homage from his willing subjects than a baby in the home. The smallest member of the family requires a great deal of attention. Sometimes, in caring for her child, a mother overtaxes her own strength. Particularly when there are other children to work for, she must learn to preserve her health. Then her home becomes a place of order and happiness. She finds time to play with her children and the whole family enjoys the dimpled baby as he grows from day to day.

Many young mothers have learned that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps them to find the strength they need.

Before her marriage, Mrs. R. N. FRANKUM of 3947 Gold St., Omaha, Neb., was a working girl. Like many girls, she sometimes had to stay at home from her work. A friend told her of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she found that it relieved her trouble.

She was in good health until her second baby came. "I began to take the Vegetable Compound again," she writes, "and was soon able to do my housework. Now I can say I never felt better in my life. Women ask me what I have been doing and I tell them about your medicine. I feel that I owe a lot to it."

WOMEN'S WORLD

NOT all the women are feminists. It was a woman who read out to me the newspaper statement of a dry agent that women in great numbers are going into the bootlegging industry. And her tone was acid when she added:

"Another step in the 'Forward Movement' of the women."

Speaking of Feminism.

I have no excuse to make for the women that are proving as indifferent as men are in the exercise of their political obligations.

But I am getting a little tired of the men who find the best whetstone on which to sharpen the blade of their "called" wit on the "failure" of the women to clean up politics.

It is flattering, indeed, for the women to realize that the men are disappointed that the women have not shorted up years since the passage of the nineteenth amendment, have not entirely straightened out the middle the men have been busy making of democratic government ever since the English people won the Magna Charta, as you might say. It is flattering, because this disappointment shows that the male electorate expected us to do.

But even flattery can grow weary when it harps too long on one string.

I heard a speaker a few nights ago who impressed me terribly with his broad and scholarly outlook on most things, and that he was a little foolishly show through, which to my mind considerably distorted his logic.

First, he blamed the recent rampant corruption of the ballot privilege in Pennsylvania for the wrong sort of popular education. The modern school system, he sought to bring out, trains only the intellect, whereas it is the feelings which prompt action, and training of the feelings, the moral impulses (which training belongs primarily in the home) the present generation has received everything else but.

While political corruption he thus attributed to a fundamental fault in the public education system, he then in the same breath accused the women's failure in eight years to reform the vote, which achievement by his own admission must have implied also their reforming of the whole modern theory of education. (And this, by the way, is not left any more completely in the hands of the women than is the voting franchise.)

As you see, he was flattering, but inconsistent. And on this subject I find men so often are.

FN view of America's celebrated efficiency, it does seem a bit queer that the ability of the new American minister to Yugoslavia to speak the language of the Serbians, and the astonishing to the Serbian people, and deserving of front page space in American newspapers.

Art in Twelve Lessons.

EFFICIENCY, by the way, is not an accustomed word as applied to the fine arts. But call it what you please, how about this?

Nellie Melba, singing her farewell in London recently at a genuinely ripe old age, was still able to give a performance of musical dignity.

Schuman-Bells, who might well be called venerable for her years as well as her character, is recalled in her old age to sing at the Metropolitan, and decidedly to the advantage.

Sembrich, who retired from the stage when the days of her glory were indeed passed, but her capacity for giving pleasure to her art still far from gone, holds her own as an unsurpassable teacher of singing.

The success of each one of these three was built not only of talent, but of genuine, stable musicianship, and they continue to hold their public as long, you might almost say, as there is breath in the air.

Do you ever hear of such survivals among the possessors of mere voice and a press agent?

Nobody need think for a moment that the Melba and the Schuman-Bells, the Sembrichs, Jenny Lind and the Patti Lacked for those useful and even noisy aids to fan the flame of popular enthusiasm. Had P. T. Barnum, who was of their period, any real superior among the press agents of today? And, Maurice Grau was no slouch as to publicity for his stars.

But now as never before the world is over-burdened with what might be called moon flower art, which blows some overnight, with blue sky philosophy, which, regardless of any considerations of art, prompts, as the essential thing, the laying up of box office treasure while the laying is good.

Such philosophy may be pardonable in the art of a Jack Dempsey, whose forces, however well he is paid, are not nearly so limited in possible length of career. As witness the Melba and the Schuman-Bells.

And is money which is made quickly the kind that sticks? Do these press-agent-made stars, who are not like the Melba and the Schuman-Bells, as just like their more prosaic neighbors as to thrift and the lack of it.

In America, all of us have grown so careless of the proverbial rainy day.

"I used to have a tight feeling in my chest after meals, a feeling that made me want to take just a good, long breath," says Mr. Ely Crow, of Statham, Ga. "I began taking Thedford's Black-Draught for this and didn't have it any more," he adds.

"I used to get sluggish and feel just as tired when I would get up in the morning as when I went to bed. I would get drowsy all during the day and would have no energy, no appetite. I would take two or three large doses of Black-Draught and in a few days I'd be hungry I could eat anything, and when I would get up in the morning I'd feel 'full of pep,' ready for work."

"This made me a great believer in Black-Draught. I recommend it to others for the good it has done me, and for the money it has saved me. People tell me that I must think Black-Draught will relieve everything, but of course I do not go that far in my belief. I know, though, that it has helped me, and I have found it just as recommended."

There is nothing very unusual about Mr. Crow's statement, and yet many people fail to heed these common warnings of constipation until they get real sick. Thousands of men and women are made to suffer by neglecting the first sign of constipation, and soon feel fine, ready for work, play and pleasure.

Black-Draught is a natural remedy for the ills due to constipation and indigestion, since only leaves and roots of medicinal plants are used as ingredients. When you take Black-Draught the digestive organs are helped in a healthy, natural way, and normal elimination is restored without the sickening effects that characterize the use of powerful mineral drugs.

Among others seen dining and dancing were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Weyliff Goldsmith, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Seating will open tomorrow for the "Pirates of Penzance," a comic opera in two acts by Gilbert and Sullivan. The plot of the "pirates" is considered one of the most delightfully whimsical and farcically humorous situations ever attempted on the musical comedy stage.

Loew's Grand.

The Rose and Moon dancers in their new revue of almost every kind of modern dancing are the headline attractions at Loew's Grand theater this week. There are ten dancers in the act and they offer some of the most marvelous dancing seen here in years.

The act is presented with plenty of speed and introduces some attractive musical numbers along with the dancing. Other acts on the bill are Mason and Cole in a comedy skit entitled, "Rain and Sunshine," which contains several pretty musical numbers, and "The Van Horns," a monologue, full of funny stories and songs some pleasing parodies.

Mays, Burt and Fenn present a pleasing song and dance act, while the Norvelles open the bill with some marvelous feats of strength.

The Loew feature picture is the sensation, "The Girl in the Red Velvet," a comedy in which Charles Ray and Joan Crawford are the stars.

At the Forsyth.

"Top Hole," the musical comedy at the Forsyth this week, is the best bit of entertainment to be seen here. The players have set off a spontaneous and thoroughly funny comedy in which "Lanning and Fred Raymond" in the principal parts, and the Farley as the feminine lead. Miss Farley made quite an impression on audiences and the act is one of the most popular of the Forsyth favorites during coming weeks.

The story of "Top Hole" has to do with golf and love. Don Lanning, as the attractive but irresponsible son of a wealthy father, is disinherited and must earn his own living. Simultaneously he falls in love and decides to pose as a golf professional to make the money and win the girl. He does both.

A number of novelties are introduced, among them being Emmett Merrill, a new addition to the company, who is a decided artist, and Janet Kelly, local dancer.

The Metropolitain.

Out in the glaring solitude of the desert with the wife of the man who had stolen his wife and caused the death of his child this is the situation in which Lord Gervay Carewe, portrayed by Lewis Stone, finds himself in "The Desert Healer," the Metropolitain feature picture this week.

This is a dramatization of the famous E. M. Hull novel and is featured by an all-star cast. The story is built around the adventures of the English nobleman, who, seeking quiet, known as El Hakim, the desert healer, and leads a useful life among the simple and lawless tribes of the desert.

Ben Turpin is seen this week in a comedy, "A Red Virginian," and with his undoubted wit, creates as many laughs as ever. "The Overture is 'Pomp and Circumstance March,' directed by Enrico Leide.

The Howard.

Marie Prevost's first star vehicle, "Up in Mabel's Room," is one of the most delightful comedies seen here this season. That was the verdict of all who saw this farcical Al Christie creation at the Howard theater on Monday and Tuesday. It is admirably staged and every role is artistically played by a fine supporting cast headed by Harrison Ford and Phyllis Haver. The Public stage production for the week is "A Bird of a Feather," another contribution by Frank Cambria. The costumes are most unique, for with the exception of a soloist who sings a brief introduction before the curtain and a character dancer who portrays a cat, all the characters on the stage represent birds.

Other subjects on the program include an overture, organ solo, news reel and comedy.

The Rialto.

"Born to the West," a cyclonic Zane Grey thriller that fairly bristles with half-trigger action and warlike romance, is at the Rialto this week. It was produced amid the wild, natural beauty of western crags and canyons on the same spectacular scale

$5,000,000 Estate Of Jennings Goes To Eight Cousins

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Chicago, Ill., July 13.—Eight cousins once removed, relatives of the fifth degree, were today declared entitled to the $5,000,000 estate of Edwin B. Jennings, wealthy reclusive a The decision was made by Judge Scanlan in circuit court, verifying the judgment of Probate Judge Horner. Those who will divide the estate are:

Sarah M. O'Car, Simcoe, Ontario. Cassie Bogert, Elyria, Ohio. Norman C. Brice, Brooklyn, N. Y. George T. Jennings, Glen Ellyn, Ill. Charles R. Jennings, Chicago. John A. Jennings, Chicago. Florence E. Brice, Chicago. Edna E. Quest, Louisville, Ky.

There still remains unsettled a claim of Mrs. Leo Rengel, a war nurse, of Decatur, Minn., who declared Jennings gave her a written promise to leave her $250,000 after she had rescued him from the wheels of a motor car in Chicago. Attorneys for four other claimants have filed notice of appeal to the supreme court. They are: Benjamin F. Brazier, of Chicago. Elizabeth Brazier, of Camp Au, Michigan. John B. Ure, of Watertown, N. Y. Edwin L. Brees, of Watertown, New York.

Soon after the death of Jennings, a "mysterious" will was sent by mail to his bank. The "will" provided that one-ninth of his estate should go to Fred W. Hill, one-ninth to John A. Jennings, Jr., one-ninth to various friends and the residue to a home for boys. This alleged will was thrown out by the courts.

ATLANTA GIRL AMONG DANCERS IN CHICAGO SHOW

Ten "Charleston" dance champions, including Miss Trina Jackson, of Atlanta, winner of The Constitution Public contest in May, received a big welcome when they opened an engagement in Chicago Monday with John Murray Anderson's production of "Charleston," according to press dispatches received from Chicago.

The girls were met at the station by city officials and at the Hotel Sherman. City officials of Chicago had taken them on a tour of the city Wednesday.

CITY BOOSTS PAY OF 80 EMPLOYEES, AVERTING STRIKE

Salary increases aggregating from $12,000 to $14,000 annually were recommended Tuesday at a special meeting of the finance committee of city council, thus wages of about 80 city employees were hiked and the threatened walkout of garbage truck helpers was averted.

The action of the finance committee was taken at the regular meeting of council Monday.

Eighty garbage truck helpers will be granted raises of 15 to 25 cents a week, according to the city council. The city council and Mayor Walter Sims approve the action of the finance committee.

That has placed Zane Grey Paramount pictures in a class by themselves among outdoor classics of the screen.

Supplementing the feature picture is a comedy from the Hal Roach studios called "Laughing Ladies."

West End Theater.

"Sporting Life" starring Bert Lytell and Marion Nixon, is being shown at the West End theater today. It is a tale of the racetrack and of the prize ring, and is one of the most graphically true pictures ever made.

With the sporting affairs of a young English nobleman who enters the prize ring to save his fortune when his father was disgraced by a gambling debt, the picture is seen as the beautiful and attractive daughter of the old race horse trainer.

81 Theater.

The season's greatest musical comedy surprise is in store for the theatergoers and musical comedy lovers of Atlanta Friday night at 8 o'clock as a special feature, this is to be one of the big days of the season at popular Lakewood amusement park.

Scores of family picnic parties are planning for the day in the cool groves and sheltered pavilions of the park, where ice water and tables are always ready, free of charge, for visitors.

The motion picture, Bob Burns, in "The Kidnapper," is a hair-raising western that every youngster likes. With a "Policat" comedy to support it a good time is assured for all who remain for picnic suppers after the children's games on the rides.

The dance casino, with lively foxtrots, Charleston and dreamy waltzes, is open free to spectators beginning at 8 o'clock.

State Commission Plans To Intervene In Junking of Road

The state public service commission Tuesday decided to intervene in proposals to dismantle the Georgia Midland railroad and to ask the federal court to postpone its order to sell the railroad until arrangements can be made to continue it in operation, according to announcement by James A. Perry, chairman of the commission.

The commission will seek to prevent recent purchasers from dismantling the road in its entirety. It was argued before the body that the road can be operated as a successful enterprise over a portion of the right of way and that a court order requiring sale of the entire road had not been approved either by the public service commission of Georgia or by the interstate commerce commission. The line runs from Gainesville to Monroe and from Gainesville to Athens.

INSTALLMENT LVII.
A STANCH ALLY.

When the local inspector wished to interview the one man whose testimony bore most closely on the manner of Alistair Pantan's death he was told, to his marked astonishment, that John Pantan had retired for the night. That might be understandable, but he was positively irritated next morning. The prosecutor-fiscal, a county official of much importance in the legal and civic life of Scotland, reached Inverlochti soon after 10 o'clock and the inspector hurried him to the house. John was again in request, but he and Furneaux and a number of gillies who knew every nook and cranny of the hills for miles around had crossed the loch more than an hour earlier. They took several dogs, enough provisions to last the day out, and a sure footed pony for Furneaux, who, though in first rate physical condition for so small a man, could hardly be expected to tramp many miles through heather without a good deal of prior training. Unless the unforeseen happened, the party would not return until nightfall.

The procurator-fiscal, a Mr. Dingwall, was none too pleased, either. "I wish Mr. Pantan could have delegated his share of the search to some other person," he said. "His absence will delay my inquiry a whole day."

Luckily Sheldon was close at hand. "The difficulty is, sir," he explained, "that Mr. Pantan's dog is probably keeping track of Connington, and the two know each other's ways. The dog would hardly recognize the right of any other person to interfere with him. Mr. Pantan impressed this fact on his helpers

"O, I'm quite a brainy young woman when I take the trouble to think."

before they set out. He improvised a set of signals so that any one in a very extended line who sees Spot can stand fast and summon him."

"Is 'Spot' the dog's name?"

"Yes."

"But my difficulty, Mr. Sheldon, is that the doctor is inclined to believe that Mr. Alistair Pantan may easily have met his death by being knocked over and mauled by some powerful animal of the kind."

The pupil of Sheldon's right eye, it will be remembered, was larger than that of the left. When he was peculiarly troubled, or amused, the one had a trick of contracting and the other of dilating. They did these things now, and the effect on Mr. Dingwall was rather disturbing. He was not quite sure that his own eyes were not deceiving him.

"Have you discussed that with Police Constable Campbell?" inquired the detective.

"No. It is only a first hand opinion formed by the doctor last night."

"Well, I'm sure you can disregard it, sir. Look at the facts. Because Mr. Alistair Pantan feared, or professed to fear, a physical attack by his cousin, he told Campbell something about it. The policeman, quite rightly and most fortunately, as it happens, kept Mr. John Pantan under close observation. If he had not no one can deny that Mr. John would now be under grave suspicion in the matter, and that very consideration, I imagine, is a vital element in Connington's flight. Having attacked Mr. Alistair with a boat hook, perhaps not wholly with intent to kill, he made off in the boat which he commandeered from the mooring ground near the bridge. The last thing he counted on was an instant alarm. But the flashing of a light on the landing stage, the police whistle, and the accidental discharge of a double barreled gun warned him that the whole district was aroused. Whether the man is a murderer or not, he is certainly a criminal, and the first instinct of a criminal is not only to escape but to throw the blame on some innocent person. Connington may certainly be trusted to assume that John Pantan would possibly be held responsible. I imagine he is banking on that chance to get clear away."

"But others may not be wholly satisfied that this Connington, whoever he may be, was anywhere in the locality," objected Dingwall stiffly. Sheldon was well aware that he must not go too far in his analysis of events until the other man was better acquainted with them. In such matters a slight barrier of doubt can easily be converted into a stone wall of prejudice.

"Have you been over the ground, may I ask, sir?" he said.

"No. That is exactly what I want to do in Mr. John Pantan's company."

"Campbell was never farther than a hundred yards from him and his dog since the two left MacDonald's cottage. Shall we get Campbell now to take us over every inch of the way? I shall be glad myself to have a look at the place in broad daylight."

The procurator-fiscal admitted that Sheldon's suggestion might simplify his inquiry. They picked up the inspector and Campbell, and were walking toward the village when Betty Bridgnorth came racing after them. Mr. Dingwall knew her well, as it happened, so he made no secret about his present errand.

"O, I'm quite a brainy young woman when I take the trouble to think," said Betty airily. "I was on the terrace, and guessed what you four were after the moment you set out. Eileen didn't sleep at all last night, so I've persuaded her to take some breakfast and have a nap. Lady Lansing is trying all sorts of dodges to keep her kiddies from hearing anything about Alistair's death until the funeral is over. Being a marvelously clever person, she may succeed. At any rate, I am at a loose end. May I join you?"

"Well—er—er—" began the official.

"O, I understand. You'd like to say 'no,' but would prefer that I should take a strong hint and find some other occupation this fine morning. But aren't you making a bit of a mistake? I probably know more about this wretch, Connington, than anybody else in Inverlochti at the present moment."

"You, Miss Bridgnorth?" cried the surprised Dingwall.

"Yes, I. Uncle Hector told me before breakfast what Alistair and Connington said when they met yesterday, and, as it happened, I had a good look at Connington in the village during the afternoon."

"But you are telling me, or, rather, indicating, things which I am nearing for the first time!"

"Exactly. That is why I ran after you. Who begins—you or I, Mr. Sheldon?"

"You are doing to admirably that I hope you will carry on," said Sheldon.

Betty told her story in terse, vigorous sentences. By the time the party had reached the bridge to the bridge path Mr. Dingwall was beginning to view the Inverlochti tragedy from a new and more accurate angle. The inspector, too, was an interested listener. He gave Sheldon an occasional weighing look which led the detective to try to dispel at once any new false impression which might be forming in his colleague's mind.

"Before Campbell tells us what happened from this point onward," he said, "I want to say that I could not possibly have put matters so clearly as you, Miss Bridgnorth. Furneaux and I came here in the dark. I am now seeing the place definitely, and piecing together a whole heap of uncertain ideas. I, for one, am very glad you are with us. I do really believe that when Campbell shows us exactly what occurred from the moment he left the boat and followed on Mr. Pantan's trail we shall have a fairly accurate notion of a somewhat extraordinary series of events."

Women's Clubs Have Ended Usefulness, Says Mrs. Clark

Des Moines, Iowa, July 13.—(AP)—Having done its utmost to bring the standard of the individual women's clubs have outgrown their usefulness. Mrs. Ida Clyde Clark, magazine writer, declared today. In fact, she added, some day they will be replaced by special interest groups with men and women active participants.

Mrs. Clark, here for the national convention of the Federation of Business and Professional Women, is an ardent advocate of the education of men to the idea of equal opportunity regardless of sex.

Although Mrs. Clark believes that a different organization eventually would be evolved, the report of the president, Olive Joy Wright, of Cleveland, Ohio, showed that the organization now has a membership of 47,000 in 775 clubs.

Miss Wright, in her address, declared women have failed to take full advantage of the rights conferred upon them by the suffrage amendment.

In enjoining "women with careers" to become better citizens, Miss Wright said, "we must admit that women have not yet measured up to the full honors the 19th amendment conferred upon them. The major part of the women in different courses in the affairs of citizenship is a matter of great concern."

Governor John Hammond, of Iowa, in welcoming the convention, urged the delegates to "learn the theory and put into practice cooperative construction."

15 Turkish Plotters Placed Under Arrest

Smyrna, July 13.—Fifteen men who plotted against the life of Mustafa Kemal, president of Turkey, will meet death on separate gallows here Wednesday morning.

Deputy Ismail Bey, a former minister of the interior, and three prominent members of the chamber, Shukri Bey, Zeynep Bey, and Arif Bey, led the list of the doomed prisoners.

In their final pleas the accused men claimed that they were not involved in the plot, but merely at the government of Turkey, but merely at the assassination of Kemal. They had then intended to flee Turkey and spend the remainder of their lives abroad. Turkish law, their plea pointed out, did not make political assassinations punishable with death.

The court judge pronounced sentence went even further against the plotters than had been asked by the prosecutor. Where 11 executions had been requested 15 were ordered. No reason was given for the order to hang the other four prisoners.

Many influential Turks involved in the plot still await trial. It is expected that at various times the president himself might stop the execution of the leading plotters if such executions were ordered, but he has made no move in this direction.

Kemal was elected president of the republic of Turkey October 29, 1923. From the outset of his administration his modern reforms and his vigorous manner of making his reforms have met opposition throughout the country.

The recent plot against him was to have been carried out in Smyrna. It was the plan to blow up the president's automobile on the day Kemal was scheduled to arrive in Smyrna.

Bank Problems Are Discussed At Dallas Meeting

Dallas, Texas, July 13.—(AP)—The annual meeting of the United States Bankers Association here today discussed the problems of the banking industry in connection with the new Federal Reserve Act.

The meeting, which is the largest of its kind in the country, is being held at the Hotel Sherman. It is the first annual meeting of the association since the passage of the Federal Reserve Act in 1913.

The meeting was opened by a preliminary showing of the film at the offices of the Federal Reserve Bank in the Bona Allen building. The audience, consisting of officers and directors of the banks, was seated in the auditorium.

The main feature of the meeting was a discussion of the new Federal Reserve Act. The speaker, who was the president of the association, discussed the various provisions of the act and the problems it would create for the banking industry.

He pointed out that the act would require banks to hold more reserves and would change the way in which the Federal Reserve Bank would operate. He also discussed the problems of the small banks and the need for a more uniform system of banking.

The meeting continued with a discussion of the problems of the banking industry in connection with the new Federal Reserve Act. The speaker, who was the president of the association, discussed the various provisions of the act and the problems it would create for the banking industry.

Macon, Ga., July 13.—(AP)—Friends and supporters of George H. Carswell, candidate for governor, gathered at a hotel here tonight and made plans for an active campaign in behalf of Mr. Carswell in all parts of the state.

A. S. Jones, Macon lawyer, was named temporary chairman of the organization and given power to select a committee, which in turn will select a man to be Mr. Carswell's campaign manager.

Many of those present took the floor and told of reports they had received from all parts of the state that Mr. Carswell was a popular figure and would be successful in that particular place.

Soon after the meeting began Mr. Carswell took the floor and said the people in all sections that he visited were against Mr. Holder (John N. Holder, chairman of the highway commission and a candidate for governor) and "desired to free themselves from machine politics." Mr. Carswell predicted his own election.
